

Set amidst the tree-lined avenues of Danes Court Estate in Oxshott, a newly-built detached family home nestles into its private, landscaped garden in this mature setting.

The four-storey Whatley House combines classical architecture with bold and contemporary interiors, making the five-bedroom house perfect for modern family living.

Whatley House was built by Mattwell Homes with the level of care and attention that is their hallmark. The house has seven bathrooms and six reception rooms. The stunning master bedroom has two dressing rooms and two en suite bathrooms. There are two further bedrooms on the first floor both with walk-in dressing rooms and shower rooms and two more bedrooms suites on the second floor.

The ground floor accommodation includes an entrance hall, with a spacious kitchen/breakfast/family room opening directly onto a terrace. The bespoke kitchen is an Italian design with wood units, quartz worktops and a bespoke breakfast bar. A large living/dining room runs the length of the house divided by a stylish wine storage unit.

The lower ground is perfect for family leisure activities with a separate gym, games room/bar and cinema area along with a home office/library.

The house is wired for television, audio video and security throughout the house with speakers installed in principal rooms. The entrance gate is video controlled and there is a Texacom accredited burglar alarm.
